

15th ANPIR award for Young researchers in Clinical Psychology

In order to promote research in the Clinical Psychology field made by clinical psychologists and residents, the 15th ANPIR Young Researchers Award in Clinical Psychology is convened with the following rules:

1. It will be candidates for the award those scientific oral communications that are unpublished and presented at the 20th ANPIR Conference by resident psychologists (or similar) or clinical psychologists who are under 35 years old (on the closing day of conference).
2. An expert panel comprised from the members of the scientific committee of the 20th ANPIR Conference will be responsible for assessing and awarding the prize.
3. The decisions of the expert panel will be non-appealable. The prize may be unawarded.
4. The person who has made the presentation of the awarded oral communication (not necessarily the first signatory) will receive a document accrediting the prize and an amount of €200.
5. The prize will be awarded at the closing ceremony of the 20th ANPIR Conference.
6. The jury may establish a special mention of the best poster communication, which will include an accreditation document
